3. BACKGROUND AND LEGISLATION

The Health Records Act 2001 (Part 1, 7.1) and the Privacy and Data Protection Act 2014 (Vic) (Part 1, 6 (1)) include a clause that overrides the requirements of these Acts if they conflict with other Acts or Regulations already in place. For example, if there is a requirement under the Education and Care Services National Law Act 2010 or the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011 that is inconsistent with the requirements of the privacy legislation, services are required to abide by the Education and Care Services National Law Act 2010 and the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011.

Legislation and standards

Relevant legislation and standards include but are not limited to:

- Associations Incorporation Reform Act 2012 (Vic)
- Education and Care Services National Law Act 2010
- Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011: Regulations 181, 183
- Freedom of Information Act 1982 (Vic)
- Health Records Act 2001 (Vic)
- National Quality Standard, Quality Area 7: Leadership and Service Management
 - Standard 7.3: Administrative systems enable the effective management of a quality service

Additional background information

Early childhood services must ensure that their processes for the collection, storage, use, disclosure and disposal of personal and health information meet the requirements of the appropriate privacy legislation and the Health Records Act 2001.

The following are examples of practices impacted by the privacy legislation:

- Enrolment records: Regulations 160, 161 and 162 of the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011 detail the information that must be kept on a child's enrolment record, including personal details about the child and the child's family, parenting orders and medical conditions. This information is regarded as sensitive information (refer to Definitions) and must be stored securely and disposed of appropriately.
- Attendance records: Regulation 158 of the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011 requires details of the date, child's full name, times of arrival and departure, and signature of the person delivering and collecting the child or the Nominated Supervisor/educator, to be recorded in an attendance record kept at the service. Contact details may be kept in a sealed envelope at the back of the attendance record or separate folder for evacuation/emergency purposes.
- Medication records and incident, injury, trauma and illness records: Regulations 87 and 92 of the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011 require the Approved Provider of a service to maintain incident, injury, trauma and illness records, and medication records which contain personal and medical information about the child.
- Handling and storage of information: Limited space can often be an issue in early childhood service environments, and both authorised employees and the Approved Provider need access to secure storage for personal and health information. Documents might be required to be stored off the service premises. Wherever confidential information is stored, it is important that it is not accessible to unauthorised staff or other persons. When confidential information is required to be taken off-site (e.g. on excursions, a list of children with medical conditions and contact numbers will be required), consideration must be given to how this is transported and stored securely.
- Computerised records: It is important that computerised records containing personal or health information are stored securely and can only be accessed by authorised personnel with a password. Services need to incorporate risk management measures to ensure that passwords are recorded and stored in a secure place at the service, and to limit access to the information only to other authorised persons (refer to the Information and Communication Technology Policy).
- Forms: Enrolment forms and any other forms used to collect personal or health information should have the service's Privacy Statement (refer to Attachment 4) attached.
- Collecting information for which there is no immediate use: A service should only collect the information it needs and for which it has a specific purpose. Services should not collect information that has no immediate use, even though it may be useful in the future.

6. Access to personal information (Privacy Principle 6)

6.1 Access to information and updating personal information

Individuals have the right to ask for access to personal information the service holds about them without providing a reason for requesting access.

Under the privacy legislation, an individual has the right to:

- request access to personal information that the service holds about them
- access this information
- make corrections if they consider the data is not accurate, complete or up to date.

There are some exceptions set out in the Privacy and Data Protection Act 2014, where access may be denied in part or in total. Examples of some exemptions are where:

- the request is frivolous or vexatious
- providing access would have an unreasonable impact on the privacy of other individuals
- providing access would pose a serious threat to the life or health of any person
- the service is involved in the detection, investigation or remedying of serious improper conduct and providing access would prejudice that.

6.2 Process for considering access requests

A person may seek access, to view or update their personal or health information:

- if it relates to their child, by contacting the Nominated Supervisor
- for all other requests, by contacting the Approved Provider/secretary.

Personal information may be accessed in the following way:

- view and inspect the information
- take notes
- obtain a copy.

Individuals requiring access to, or updating of, personal information should nominate the type of access required and specify, if possible, what information is required. The Approved Provider will endeavour to respond to this request within 45 days of receiving the request.

The Approved Provider and employees will provide access in line with the privacy legislation. If the requested information cannot be provided, the reasons for denying access will be given in writing to the person requesting the information.

In accordance with the legislation, the service reserves the right to charge for information provided in order to cover the costs involved in providing that information.

The privacy legislation also provides an individual about whom information is held by the service, the right to request the correction of information that is held. The service will respond to the request within 45 days of receiving the request for correction. If the individual is able to establish to the service's satisfaction that the information held is incorrect, the service will endeavour to correct the information.

Responding to a Privacy Breach

The information Privacy Act 2000 does not require ECKA to notify individuals of a privacy breach. However, if a privacy breach creates a risk of harm or loss to the individual, those affected should be notified.

The key consideration in deciding whether to notify affected individuals is not be based on the number of affected individuals alone, rather whether notification is necessary in order to avoid or mitigate harm to an individual whose personal information has been inappropriately accessed, collected, used or disclosed. ECKA will also take into account the ability of the individual to take specific steps to mitigate any such harm. In some exceptional cases, notification may cause more harm than it would alleviate.

Notifying Affected Individuals

ECKA will consider the following factors when deciding whether to notify:

- What are the legal and contractual obligations?
- What is the risk of harm, loss or damage to the individual?
- Is there a reasonable risk of identity theft or fraud (usually because of the type of information lost, such as an individual's name and address together with government-issued identification numbers or date of birth)?
- Is there a risk of physical harm (if the loss puts an individual at risk of physical harm, stalking or harassment)?
- Is there a risk of humiliation or damage to the individual's reputation (e.g. when the information lost includes sensitive information or disciplinary records)?
- What is the ability of the individual to avoid or mitigate possible harm?

When to notify:

ECKA will notify individuals affected by the breach as soon as reasonably possible following assessment and evaluation of the breach. However, if law enforcement authorities are involved, ECKA will check with those authorities whether notification should be delayed to ensure that the investigation is not compromised.

How to notify:

ECKA's preferred method of notification is direct – by phone, letter, email or in person – to affected individuals. Indirect notification – website information, posted notices, media – will only occur where direct notification could cause further harm, is prohibitive in cost or the contact information for affected individuals is not known and cannot be reasonably obtained. Using multiple methods of notification in certain cases may be appropriate. ECKA will also consider whether the method of notification might increase the risk of harm (e.g. by alerting the person who stole the laptop of the value of the information on the computer).

Who should notify:

ECKA will notify affected individuals, including when the breach occurs at a third-party service provider that has been contracted to collect, maintain or process the personal information. However, there may be circumstances where notification by a third party is more appropriate. For example, in the event of a breach by an organisation of credit card information, the credit card issuer may be involved in providing the notice since ECKA may not have the necessary contact information.

Others to contact:

ECKA will also consider whether the following authorities or organisations should also be informed of the breach, as long as such notifications are in compliance with the information privacy act:

- Police: if theft or other crime is suspected, or there is a risk to public safety;
- Health services commissioner: if any of the information is health information;
- Insurers or others: if required by contractual obligations;
- Professional or other regulatory bodies: if professional, licensing or regulatory standards require notification of these bodies;
- Credit card companies, financial institutions or credit reporting agencies: if their assistance is necessary for contacting individuals or assisting with mitigating harm; and
- Other internal or external parties not already notified:
third party contractors or other parties who may be impacted; internal business units not previously advised of the privacy breach, e.g. government relations, communications and media relations, senior management, etc.

Breaches of this Policy

- Individuals who purposely disclose private information for any unauthorised purposes or to an unauthorised individual/s may be liable to criminal or civil legal action. This could result in serious consequences, such as a fine, damages and/or costs being awarded against the individual, or imprisonment. The Approved Provider will not defend or support any individual who knowingly discloses private information.
- Employees who fail to adhere to this policy may be liable to counselling, disciplinary action or dismissal.

Prevention of Future Breaches

Once the immediate steps are taken to mitigate the risks associated with the breach, ECKA will investigate the cause of the breach and consider whether to develop a prevention plan. The level of effort investigating the breach should reflect the significance of the breach and whether it was a systemic breach or an isolated instance.

This plan may include the following:

- a security audit of both physical and technical security;
- a review of policies and procedures and any changes to reflect the lessons learned from the investigation and regularly after that (e.g. security policies, record retention and collection policies, risk management strategy etc.);
- a review of employee training practices; and
- a review of contractual obligations imposed on contracted service providers.

The resulting plan may include a requirement for a review or audit at the end of the process to ensure that the prevention plan has been fully implemented. Following any breach, it is vital that ECKA assess and evaluate how well the organisation handled the matter in line with ECKA's overall risk management strategy and make any necessary changes.

Some staff may use learning journals, or private communication programs such as Storypark, in which photographs are included.

During the kindergarten year the devices that photographs or videos are recorded on, including camera memory cards, computers and electronic devices will be stored securely with password access.

When the photographs/videos are no longer being used, the service will destroy them if they are no longer required, or otherwise store them securely at the service. It is important to note that while the service can nominate the use and disposal of photographs they organise, the service has no control over those photographs taken by parents/guardians of children attending the service program or activity.

Group photographs/videos taken by parents/guardians

Parents/guardians may take group photographs/videos of their own child/children at special service events such as birthdays, excursions and other activities. Parents must ensure that where the photographs/videos include other children at the service they are sensitive to and respectful of the privacy of those children and families in using and disposing of the photographs/videos. Parents should not include photos or videos of staff, other parents or children other than their own, on social networking websites such as Facebook, Instagram etc, without the permission of other parents and staff.

Photographs taken by a photographer engaged by the service

A photographer may be engaged by the service to take individual and/or group photographs of children. Information will be provided in written form to parents/guardians prior to the event, and will include the date and the photographer's details.

Photographs/videos for use in newspapers, Eureka Community Kindergarten Association Inc. (ECKA) website and other external publications

The permission of parents/guardians of children will, on every occasion, be obtained prior to a child's photograph being taken to appear in any electronic or printed newspaper/media, external publication and websites.

Photographs/videos taken by students on placement

Students at the service may take photographs/videos of children as part of their placement requirements. The permission of parents/guardians of children will, on every occasion, be obtained prior to a child's photograph being taken for this purpose.

Australian Privacy Principles

The commonwealth government made extensive amendments to the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) with effect from 12 March 2014. Under these changes, organisations with an annual turnover greater than $ 3 million are required to comply with 13 new Australian Privacy Principles (APPs), which replace the current National Privacy Principles (NPPs). (ELAA advises services to seek specific advice from a legal professional about whether their organisation needs to comply with the Australian Privacy Principles)

From 12 March 2014, the APPs will apply to all existing and future collections of personal information. This means, that all existing arrangements for collecting, and handling personal information in services to which the old NPPs applied must be reviewed by services to ensure they comply with the new APPs.

Collection processes

Type of personal and health information to be collected

The service will only collect the information needed, and for which there is a legitimate purpose related to the service's functions and/or legislative, regulatory or funding obligations.

The type of information collected and held by the service includes (but is not limited to) personal information, including health information, regarding:

- children and parents/guardians prior to and during the child's attendance at the service (this information is collected in order to provide and/or administer services to children and parents/guardians)
- job applicants, employees, members, volunteers and contractors (this information is collected in order to manage the relationship and fulfil the service's legal obligations)

The service will not use these government related identifiers as its own identifier of the individual unless it is required or authorised by law or a court order.

Method of collecting personal and health information information. The service will advise that individual of their right to request access to this information. Access will be granted in accordance with the relevant legislation.

When the service receives unsolicited personal information about an individual, it will destroy the information if it is of the view that it could not have collected the information about the individual under the APP if it had solicited the information.
